Seminar Description

Therapeutic taping has been used for over 100 years to improve function, reduce pain and prevent injury. This session will cover theory and practical application of proprioceptive taping based on current evidence utilizing techniques introduced by a variety of leaders in the fields of physical therapy and athletic training including McConnell, Mulligan, Kenso Kase (Kinesio®) and athletic taping. It will be all-inclusive for orthopedic, neurologic, pediatric and lymphedema conditions. Emphasis will be on clinical reasoning and critical thinking vs. cook-book approach. Included will be a discussion of billing and reimbursement.

Please wear appropriate clothing as this session is primarily lab and will include taping for the entire spine and extremities.

Objectives

Upon completion, the learner will:

1. Participants will be able to select appropriate patients for taping interventions relative to indications and contraindications.
2. Participants will be able to select and apply appropriate taping techniques based on patient presentation and functional limitations.
3. Participants will be able to assess efficacy of taping application objectively.
4. Participants will be able to discuss current evidence with regard to utilizing taping techniques.
5. Participants will be able to objectively document techniques applied for billing and reimbursement.
